

I do not agree with the T-Mobile and ATT merger. I am current customer of T-mobile who came over from ATT. I left ATT for a reason, I did not like their pricing, customer service, or data options. I have been exceptionally happy with T-mobile's service, pricing, and data options. If the merger does proceed as soon as my contract ends I will definitely move to another service.

I also, believe this merger will stifle competition here in the states. Only in the US do we have these ridiculous 2 year contracts with so many limitations it is unreal. ATT has been famous for restricting their customers, and making you pay for every little thing. Whereas with T-mobile, I currently have the family unlimited plan and it greatly reduces the stress of having a fluctuating monthly bill.
